ALBANIAN SCHOOL OF COMPLEMENTARY LEARNING, A REALITY IN THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF INDEPENDENCE

Spoken Albanian language derives from the depth of centuries, from Illyrian, Arbërisht, Albanian. It resisted all storms slamming on it. Today it is one among the 5-6 most important languages in Europe and among the 11 most important languages in the world. The Albanian language is spoken in Albania, Kosovo, Macedonia, Montenegro and the Diaspora.

Albanian schools are also found in Zara, Romania, Bulgaria and other countries.

Similarly, in the years 1920-1921, in Istanbul we had six open Albanian schools and directed by Riza Drini. In the Albanian school in Argentina teaching of the immigrant children and adults continued up to the eve of World War II.

In Switzerland, develop the complementary instruction develops in the regular classroom schedules in some cantons. This is where, the canton makes possible the financing of teachers, as a whole or partially. Albanian schools in Switzerland, have a stretch in all cantons. A clear picture of Albanian schools is found in the book: "History of Albanian school of complementary learning in Switzerland" by Prof. dr. Shefik Osmani and Doc. Ma. Mahir Mustafa.

Albanian Language learning is institutionalized also in the Austrian schools. In Greece, Albanian language is taught in rented premises, or at a local school, on Sundays, under the auspices of various associations. Teachers work voluntarily, but quite devoted to preserve the national and language identity.

In all countries, where there are open Albanian schools with complementary learning, there are organized seminars on different topics, for the benefit of teachers and teaching in Albanian language. There are also organized seminars and lectures in collaboration with local professors and teachers, using their experience (home and abroad), because some powerful countries have established, in countries where there is much immigration, their schools, with all their educational settings, such as German schools, French ones, etc. , as well as smaller countries like Greece.

Nowadays, in Albania, it has been created a new sector for Diaspora in the Ministry, which deals with the organization and provision of the diaspora with texts: "To learn the native language and Albanian culture" 1, 2, 3. These texts are construed on the basis of programs approved by the Ministry of Education and Science, and are given free. There are also organized trainings for teachers, etc.
